Seeking New Paths

When the students first entered Green Run's doors, little did they know all the many new experiences that awaited them. With these new experiences, however, came a multitude of choices to make. There were fun choices, such as whether to dress "preppie" or "punk", and important choices such as whether to go to college or get a job. Falling somewhere between was deciding which class to take and which club to join. Faced with all these choices, these forks in the road, the students met each challenge knowing that they had friends to support their decisions. Although there were times of bewilderment and confusion, decisions were made and new paths were followed to exciting new adventures.

Becoming Old Friends

It is amazing how students can turn a lifeless, cold, squeaking new, brick building into a good ol' high school packed with memories. All it takes is friendly people with the initiative to leave their mark. In the past three years, students have been gathered from every beach district junior high, from schools throughout the United States, and from numerous foreign countries. The seniors were extremely proud to be the first true graduating class. The first edition of the Thoroughbreds was known throughout the Beach as being a successful class, leaving an excellent example for future classes to follow. It took a giant effort from the entire student body to put warmth and spirit into a new environment. Seeing all the laughter in the halls, cheering at the games, and the determination of the clubs, a newcomer was made to feel as if he'd been a part of it all along and as if our school had been around for as long as the other area high schools. Truly, we have become old friends.

No greater gift — Steve Renter donates blood for the school's blood drive.

A True Green Runner's Car

Luel Tolentino is a positive thinker.

It has been said that if someone wants something, one can find it in Virginia Beach. This could also be said about Student Life at Green Run. Participating in all competitions and activities, the student body was totally involved in seeking new paths. Plenty of sunshine, a beautiful campus, and good friends provided everyone with a fantastic environment to either "mellow out" or "fire up!"

— STUDENT LIFE —

That Was The Week

Dress-ups . . . concerts . . . pep rallies . . . parades . . . football . . . and dances. Of all the weeks spent at school, "Spirit Week" the week that led up to Homecoming, was the most exciting week of the year.

During "Spirit Week," the student body was encouraged to show their spirit by dressing in different styles each day. There was "Preppie" day, "50's" day, "Weird Wednesday," "Tourist" day, and "Come as Your Favorite Rock Star"

day. Of course, Homecoming Day was "School Colors" day.

The pep rally was a huge success as football players were introduced and predictions of victory were made. The Thespians, while dressed as hoboes, were able to collect large amounts of $money$ for the United Way Fund.

Flashing lights and a driving beat kept everyone at the "States" concert stomping their feet and screaming for more. Most who attended were dressed in camouflage pants, fake fur, wild makeup, and dyed hair. However, by the next day, these same students were dressed normally — and in school colors — for the Homecoming Parade.

After a parade which included floats, the band, and the ever popular horse unit, Coach Cooke's victory predictions were proven correct when the football team defeated Granby. The big question during the game was, "Who will be Homecoming Queen?" The answer was Vicki Gray.

The final activity of the week was the dance. A local D.J. kept everyone up on their feet. As the last record was played, everyone agreed that the tradition of Spirit Week was definitely here to stay!

A Winning Season

42-12: The scoreboard flashed the final score of the T.C. Williams game as the first truly successful season of the Stallions football team came to a close. The game ended an exciting and eventful year for the team. A year of struggle, growth, and accomplishment which led to a record of 6-4, the first winning season for the Stallions since the school opened.

The team, led by a strong

Anthony Cuffee, Fred Watson, Darryl Brooks, and Brian Brackins congratulate each other after a successful play.

"thoroughbred" lineup, fought a tough uphill battle almost always defying the critics when predicted to lose. A tight defense pulled down the opposition to let a strong offense pave the way for a string of victories. Tricky runs and complicated plays always had the crowd on their feet cheering for victory while the scoreboard lit up another score for Green Run. A new tradition, a new path.

Through functioning as a unit, the team develops a friendship which keeps them strong ... even when it seems the ref is blind.

"Why do they always schedule my classes at the opposite ends of the building?" Chiako Taylor wonders.

"I hate Mondays. I just can't seem to get going," groans Stefan Schilsky.

Paul Arthur will always be able to cook ... as long as he has a can opener.

At 1:55 the lights went out. And stayed out. Everyone was forced to call it a day and go home.

Outside Of Class

Although the majority of school time was spent in class, there were a few moments of free time for . . . calling home or resting those tired aching feet or visiting with friends or cooking lunch or griping about school teachers, classes, homework, friends, life . . .

"Mom, can you pick me up today? I have to stay after to make-up a test. You will?" Vicki Magnum asked.

"Ready or not, here we come!"

Janice Johnson practices her "jumper."

The Stallion Look

True class was seen within the classrooms whether it was a specific style or a combination of styles. Colors — blue and green, purple and black, beige and gold — showed the students' varied ways of expressing themselves. Many students were known for their clothes and some couldn't decide which style they preferred.

MORNING RUSH

"Mom! Where're my books? The bus is coming, Hurriry!" Did that sound like your school mornings? Or maybe you had to walk two miles and had to get up an hour BEFORE the rest of the world? Then there were those lucky students who were able to drive. They got to sleep in and come to school at their leisure. They even had enough time to EAT BREAKFAST!

Remember school around 7:40? Students and teachers were arriving. Mass confusion as people everywhere were saying — "Hi!"

"Do you have last night's homework?", and "Oh no! I have a test first bell!"

Another big event on school mornings was the attendance office. Their excuses were as good, if not better, than the ones used for homework. "My mom was so sick she couldn't write me a note", "Well, last night...and I just couldn't get up at 6:00....I mean..." No matter what, coming to school will always be remembered as an "awakening" experience.

EAT & RUN

Lunch Time! Munch Time! It was finally a chance to relax time. Your brains were drained and your feet had lost their beat. OHH! Hunger pains. Race to get in line before the rush of people. If the hot lunch didn't tingle your tastebuds, a pie or any snack satisfied your need. OHH! You didn't do your homework. It was time to spend your precious remaining minutes straining your brain (and stomach) in the library.

"Why am I in this line for a soyburger?"

"Hey, look, that guy just split mustard on that girl's head!" announced Chieko.

"Ugh! What is that guy doing with those french fries?"

Birds of a feather munch together.

Hey, where'd my milk go?

CELEBRATIONS

Although parties were outlawed in school, everyone celebrated everything from holidays to homecomings. Practically every week had a time set aside for something special, whether it was the fact that a class had 98.5% attendance for an entire week or if it was a culture day in Language class. Two main ingredients were food and music. Teachers found the best bribe for participation in the Joy Fund or any other class competition was the fact of filling the tummies. The teachers deserve credit as the cakes and cupcakes were "munched" until the last crumb was out of sight! Mrs. Lankford is known for her delicious chocolate chips and her classes battled it out every six weeks for the highest quiz averages. Why? Because the victors got the COOKIES! Mrs. Matthews knew no one could resist to sing along so she provided the music in her room. At bigger events such as homecoming and Winter Festival a professional D.J. did his thing as the students did their's on the dance floor. School is always remembered as the "six class semester" and no one would have survived that fate without those little "celebration times."

OUT ON PAROLE

The bell rang after lunch and the hustle and bustle between classes increased. Students anxiously awaited 2:00. Sixth bell was finally concluded, the bell rang and approximately 2,500 students went in 2,500 directions. Afterschool activities were as diverse as the diversity of Green Run's students. School related activities included athletic practice, foreign language club meetings, yearbook meetings, modern dance practice, and play and band rehearsals. Green Run was just as busy after 2:00 as it was during the 6 bells.

However, with the students that went home at 2:00 several patterns seemed to emerge as to their favorite pastime. Heading the list was of course, television. Cartoon and soap opera addicts came out of the woodwork. Students were outside playing sports, at their neighbors' houses babysitting or everyone's favorite, doing homework and eating snacks.

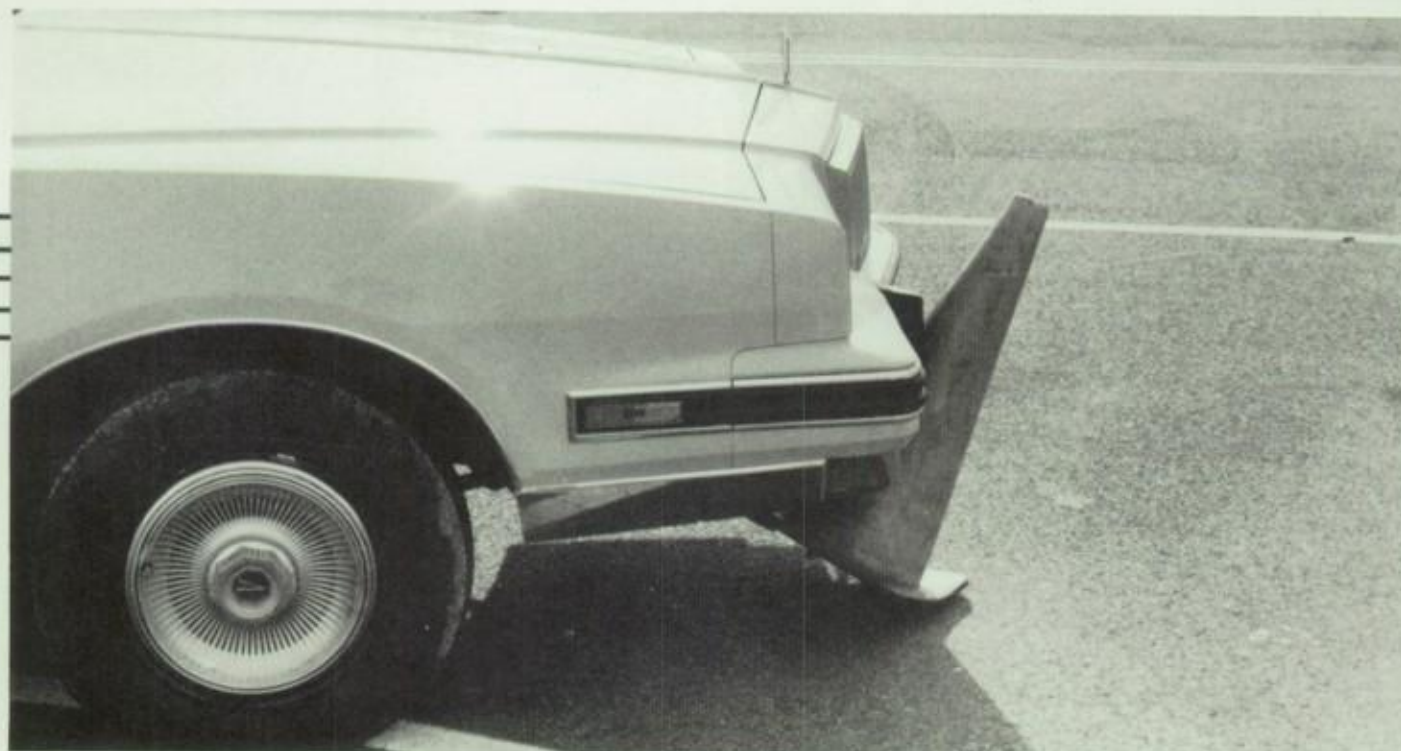

Afterschool activities were varied and numbered and reflected the different tastes and interests of Green Run students.

You don't know your library number?!

Finished

In the past year, students at Green Run became very familiar with the library. Notecards, bibliographies, footnotes, and outlines were just a few of the many chores that English students conquered. Research papers became a very unpopular topic among grumbling and griping students and caused much mental anguish. Many a late night was spent at libraries throughout the city. Researching students could always be identified by dark circles and blood-shot eyes. Many sighs of relief were heard after papers were handed in and students spelled relief F-I-N-I-S-H-E-D!!

The result of the lab is not what was expected.

One of the labs that students look forward to is making peanut brittle.

Experimenting into the Future

Why go out and buy peanut brittle when you could make it here in Chemistry Class? Students taking courses in science and math explored many new paths in both fields. In Mr. Percell's classes, chemistry students created several concoctions, one of which was candy canes before Christmas. In one of the math courses, computer science students learned how to operate a computer. They plotted out their projects using mathematical formulas and a lot of time and effort. As a result of these courses, who knows? We could have our next computer masterminds and mad scientists on our hands!

The chemistry teacher, after sampling the product, is not open for comment.

Health, Safety, And Izods

There were, of course, other courses one could take besides grueling geometry, heart-sinking history, cadaver-making composition, or blood-curdling biology. The Art, Industrial Arts, and Business Departments offered a variety of courses for specific fields. So, if auto repair, classic artists, or business law was your bag, all you had to do was sign up.

Industrial Arts offered one the chance to develop skills in hand-crafts, woodworking, photodeveloping, and a multitude of other areas. The Arts Department had three levels of art and a course called Art History from which one could possibly earn a college credit. Business, through its classes, could teach and develop skills in typing, legal work, recording, and other business related functions.

Yes, one didn't have to take just basic math, regular science, or required English. Even though they were important, the other courses helped to prepare for future paths one might follow. They added that special spice and everything nice.

"Where's the woodpecker? He must be in here somewhere!"

"What is this mess?"

Future Paths

As you walked through the halls, did you ever smell a cake baking? Or did you ever see sophomores decked out in their red shirts and blue shorts running around the track? Or, did you ever see a Driver's Ed instructor taking his heart pills because of another "close call" with a student? Well, these three courses, Home Ec, Phys Ed and Drivers Ed, taught students about their health, safety and how to be a sharp consumer.

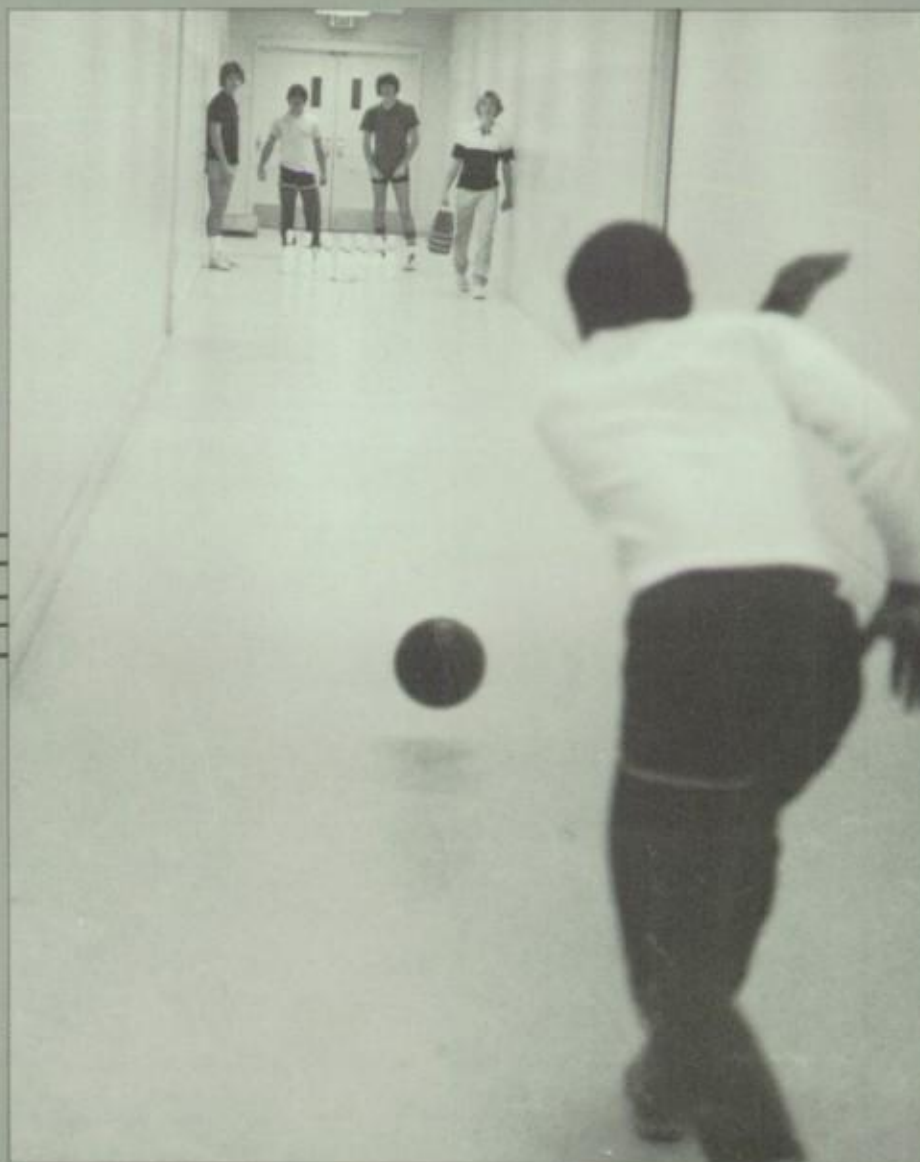

In P.E., students played a variety of sports — basketball, volleyball, gymnastics, wrestling and track and field. The President's Physical Fitness Awards were also a part of this curriculum.

Drivers Ed taught the rules and safety of driving. So girls, you no longer needed your boyfriend's help in changing that flat tire; you might have even changed his for him!

Courses like marriage and the family, foods, clothing and Home Ec helped students to learn how to cook, sew, and manage their home. Maybe some of the boys who took those courses will be cooking for their wives when they're married — well, at least they won't starve if they aren't!

Teamwork In Action

Academics provided time not only for individual achievement, but also time for individuals uniting together in search of a common goal. Whether or not it might have been something less academic, as Mrs. Sharer's homeroom coming together to win the coveted first place award, or something more intellectual, as six computer science buffs outwitting all the schools in Tidewater, unity was important. DECA students worked with each other to help make Green Run a reputation of superior student turnout. By winning individual awards through unity, individuals learned teamwork and achievement.

FRIEND

by Ken Leon

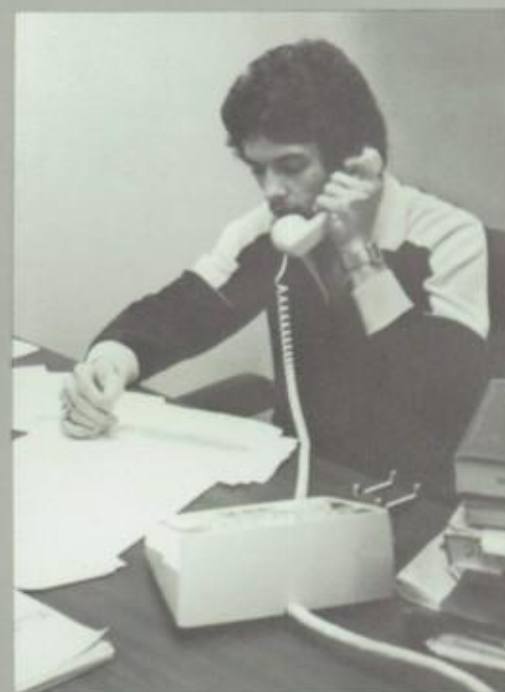

If I suffer any less, or smile any more, the reason
Comes from without.
Were I but younger at heart, and stronger of will,
I would be to you I would always reach out.
Cry fewer tears, hold fewer fears,
The cause only we will share.
For friendship so sacred
Needs not be approved
In the hearts of any, save those of the pair.
When we do sadness recall,
We do so together,
Just as we do happiness.
And if love should arise, only we will feel it,
For love so sacred
Is exclusive.
If I display fewer sorrows, smile more on the morrows,
The reason comes not from within,
But from the source which spills sunlight
Into the darkened valleys of my soul
And warms the Winters
Which arise in the Fall,
Not from within, not at all.
Perhaps you recall the first days of old,
When we as children surveyed one another
From our respective windows, mine the larger, and Yours the "easier in which to hide".
Or the first moments of contact, you were
The larger, and I the "more difficult to find".
At play, it was I who established rules,
You who broke them.
Destined to merge, we found teamwork often
Satisfied our individual needs.
We were the fastest, the strongest, the two
Who never lost. (I don't recall losses)
As boredom overtook us, we sought more to Gain strength over one another.
Fighting as boys, we parted as boys.
Yet, we found no real barrier could prevent
The need we felt for each other's presence.
Forgiveness became a toy, a game, a word.
It became difficult to understand when Anger and pleasure were different. It mattered not.
We were friends.
As we matured, friendship became a reason
For leaving one another to our own devices.
Time was the game then, for as long as we Were young, our hearts could be excluded from
The game.
But age changed that, and we knew the seasons
No longer allowed jumping in leaf piles,
Or hide-and-go-seek. (I never liked that silly game)
I wonder now where you might be, and if the Game still goes on.
Strange, we never said goodbye. Did we?

Will, what can I say? It's been one hell of a crazy year!! I'm glad that we met at the beginning of the school year. I don't know what I would have done without you.
You have been like the sister I never had. You have listened to my daily problems and I love ya for it. This has really been a great year. (You meeting Brian)
We've had some wild times!!!
Just remember all the fun
we use to have and don't forget me, okay? You are the best friend I've ever had in my life and what more can I say?
You have been a great friend and a lot of fun!
Keep in touch girl.

Love,
Bonnie
Brundage

Poetry Winners

Equus '82, sponsored a poetry contest on friendship. Ken Leon, a senior won first place while Vicki Mangum, also a senior, came in second. Congratulations to both.

John Frenzer is one of the most outstanding high school students in the state. He was first chair flute in the 1981 All-State band making him section leader of the flute section. At Green Run he leads the flutes in concert band and plays the fluglehorn in the marching band.

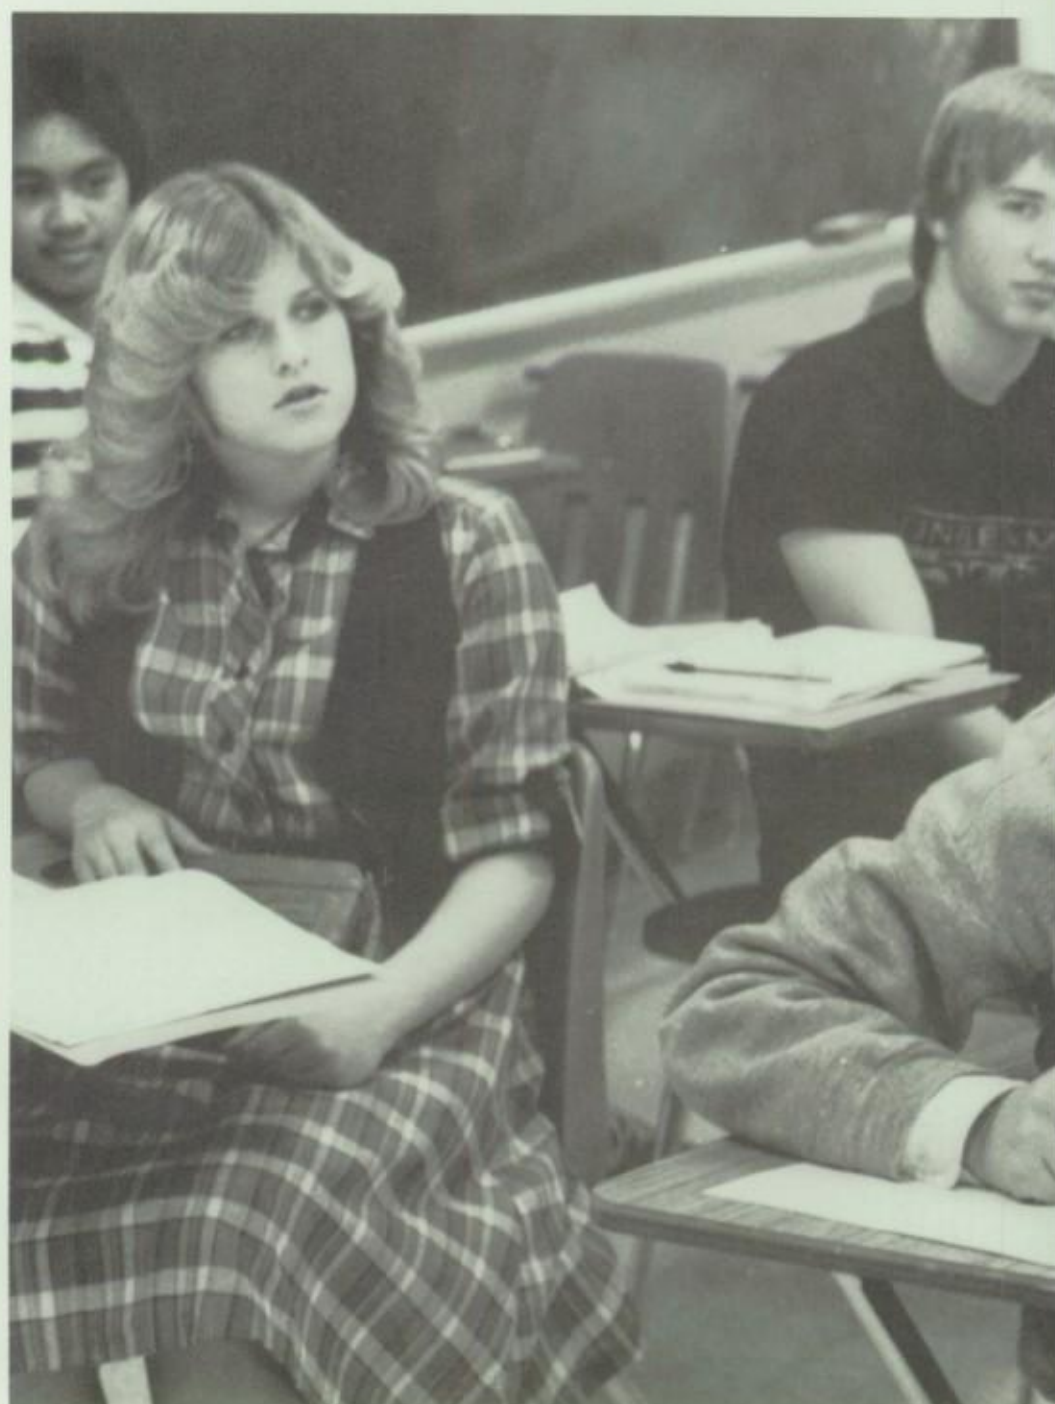

Paul Deiss has been playing his clarinet for 6½ years. His junior year he made eighth chair in the All-State band. This year he made first chair in the regional band and is destined for top chairs at the state band once again. In his spare time he teaches clarinet to elementary school students.

Kevin Lanham is truly an all around outstanding student. Kevin was ranked second in Green Run first semester as a student. He is a member of the Honor Society and is one of the select few that are accepted to Westpoint.

David Tatu is responsible for the coordination of the scenery, lighting, and the actors at every play, musical or concert that goes on. He designs sets, works the lights and gets the actors in top condition for the performances. Among his accomplishments he won second place in state Thespian competition for his design of the sets in the The Diary of Anne Frank.

Jon Seddon Shows a great amount of electronic ingenuity. He is really into model rocketry and spends much of his spare time in the library. When asked what he did over the Christmas holidays, he responded, "I built a computer."

THE ELITE

Among the students in Green Run High School is a group of special people. These are people who consistently excel in school activities, but never seem to be recognized or stand out. Some are shy, some are modest, and some are just too busy to be recognized. The key ingredients in a good student seem to be a mature attitude, attentiveness, dedication to the school and community and a lot of good hard work. All of these students have shown these qualities either through their musicianship, art ability, athletic achievements or just plain good grades.

Truly a versatile instrumentalist, Martha Fucile started out playing the piano. While maintaining the piano she started on the cello and in eighth grade, started on the french horn. In her second year on the horn, she made first chair in the Junior Regional band. This year she is one of the three sophomore wind players in the Tidewater Youth Symphony. She also received third chair in the Senior regional band and will be trying out for state band.

In addition to the technical aspect of the production, actors are needed. That is where Chanler Abarta excels. She played the role of Mrs. Van Daan in the Diary of Anne Frank, and had a role in the musical, Mame. She plans to make acting her career.

HIT THE BOOKS

Most students would have loved to have hit the books . . . LITERALLY. Homework and especially the last minute cram were part of every day studying routines. People were seen in every possible position and everywhere imaginable with open books hoping to absorb the info before the bell rang. If there would have been some sort of god for studying, as Venus is for love, then it would have been most popular. ## It was the Best of Times, It was the Worst of Times.

A year filled with ups and downs ... from the royal wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Di, to the enforcement of martial law in Poland.

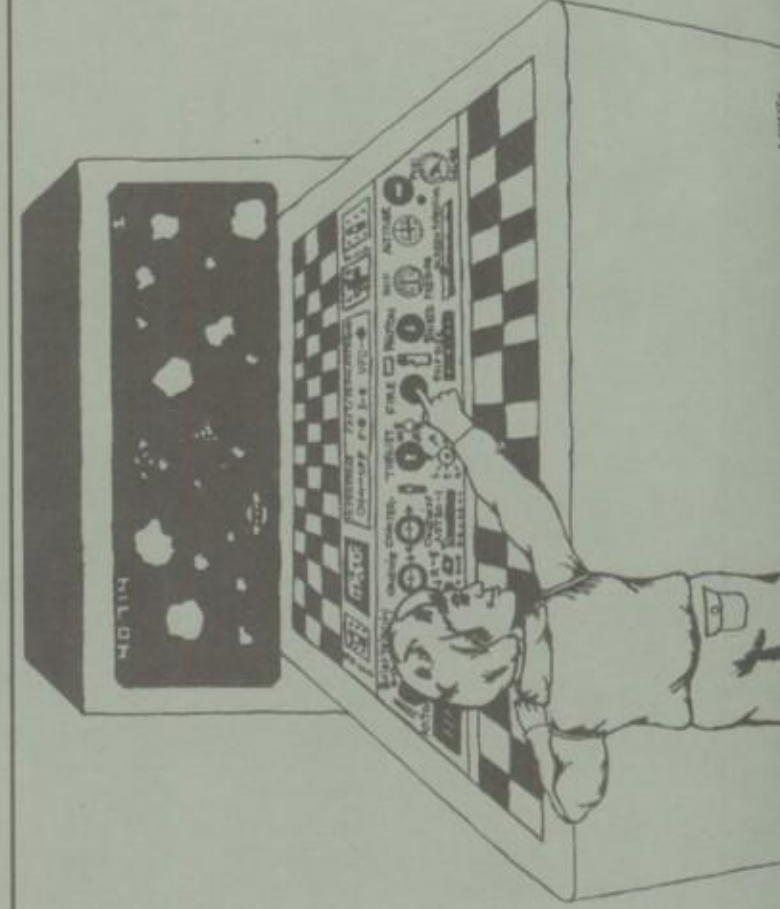

After the assassination attempt on President Reagan, another was made on Pope John Paul. Undaunted the Pope continued his visits around the world after his recovery. Anwar Sadat was President of Egypt and lived his life doing what he could for promoting peace. It was a recognizable loss to the world when he was brutally assassinated by Muslim fanatics. Charles Ray met a similar destiny as an American attache in Paris, France. Green ribbons were worn during the trial of Wayne Williams in which he was convicted of two murders out of the more than twenty Atlanta youth slayings which were thought to be related. Liz Taylor finished her bout with politics as she separated from her sixth husband, Senator Warner.

WEDDING BELLS

"I, Diana Frances, take thee, Phillip, Charles, Arthur, George ..." Gee — and the Queen thought she named her son Charles, Phillip, Arthur ...

The Yule Tree on the Ellipse, that beacon of freedom which had remained dark the two Christmases when Americans were held hostage in Iran, was lighted in Washington D.C. this year. But the tradition had to be altered and the President lit the tree by remote control from within the House because of assassination threats by Libyans. Terrorist pushed their way into 1982 by kidnapping General Dozier in Italy — he was safely released.

On the brighter side, the space shuttle had successful take offs and landings, and a woman was appointed to the Supreme Court, now THAT is progress!

THE YEARBOOK'S BEST PAGES

Journey, Crest, M&M's, Raiders, and General Hospital were the Best! A school-wide survey was taken of all Green Run students. We discovered 342 ways to spell Crest. We found punkgroups with unprintable names. Bell six was a very popular choice for bell one. In choosing between M&M's and Gummi Bears, many chose Snickers, Mars Bars, Three Muskateers ... Were these well known by-products of M&M's and Gummi Bears? Finally ALL 2,500 answers were compiled to reach the fabulous decisions:

Rock — Journey, Styx, and AC/DC
Punk — Go-Go's, Kinks, and Police
Soul — Earth, Wind & Fire, Kool and The Gang, and Cameo
Junk Food — McDonald's, Burger-King, and Hardee's

THE BEST PAGES IN THE YEARBOOK

How well did Green Run students know their vocabulary words? A few students made some outrageous guesses at these three.

BALABUSTAH — 1. When you dive and land flat on your back
2. Burger King's newest speciality sandwich
3. A new wave dance
4. Something you don't say in church
5. The deodorant in toilet paper

GALEYGASCOYNE — 1. Mexican food
2. A Preppie with a zit
3. A form of death reserved for faculty

4. An old family car
5. A disease contracted from sitting through Shakespeare
ZAPTIEH — 1. New fashion jeans
2. The feeling you get when you're caught in the hall without a hall pass
3. Something you yell at your boss
4. A gadget to hotwire cars
5. Something growing on your bread

LIVE! FROM GREEN RUN!

When the audience was nearly brought to tears the crew and cast of The Diary of Anne Frank knew they had accomplished the goal of all their weeks of rehearsal. The actors used every bit of talent as they performed a true story which dealt with Jews in Nazi Germany. Half the cast had to be part of the older generation and portrayed sincerity and maturity that the teenage actors have never had to deal with in real life. The script was a challenge and Mrs. Brock knew her group could handle it. Entertainment was at its best as Lisa Willoz (Anne) made light of the growing up experience. Professionalism forced the crew not to make notice of the time when the cat star (Muschi) jumped through one of the imaginary walls. Tyson Schaedel did not let his true age show as he did the entire play in his sober father figure image. David Tatoo provided the award winning set design.

Stallion Spirit

Throughout Green Run's history Stallions have spread their spirit by selling various items with "Green Run Stallions" written on it. These items stretched from jackets to mega-phones to Tee-shirts to bumperstickers, and many more.

Another way that the Stallions spread their spirit around Green Run was to donate Murals of Stallions and GR's. Everywhere you looked a reminder of Green Run was being displayed.

If you didn't know that the class of '82 sold the megaphones, you should have asked Mike Murray.

Despite Green Run's three year existence, our athletes have brought pride and recognition to our school. Green Run was fortunate enough to obtain fine athletes from the Beach area. Who knows, in just a few years you may see our athletes in the Olympics or as professional athletes. Our star gymnast could be the next Nadia Comaneci; our promising tennis player could be another Tracy Austin or Chris Evert; our fastest track star could be the next Bruce Jenner. These are very real possibilities because our athletes have the drive, the patience, and a love for the world of sports, to do anything they set their minds to. This and more was 'Our Athletic Program.'

A Winning Season

What was the most popular sport this past year? What was the sport that EVERYONE went to? Students seemed to think that football fit into these categories. Our team practiced with pinched nerves, bruised thighs, crushed knees and broken fingers, but still pulled through with a 6-5 record. When asked what game the team played the best, as a whole, Frank Anderson said that he personally felt that the team put forth the greatest effort at the T.C. Williams confrontation. We won that last game 42-12.

What was the reason for Green Run's success? According to Steve Lambert, "You have to want it bad enough to get it." You have to be able to practice hard, and practice through pain, because "pain makes gain." Jessie Robertson's 'cheers' also boosted morale. Awards that were given at the Football Banquet were: Steve Lambert — Most Valuable Player, Burnell Stallings — Golden Stallion, Tony Harold — Most Valuable Lineman, and Frank Anderson — Most Valuable 'Back.'

This homecoming score pleased everyone except Granby.

And They're Off...

Sprained ankles, blisters, and pulled hamstrings. These were just a few of the problems the Cross-Country team suffered during the 1981-82 season. But despite all these problems, Coach Hyatt was pleased with the girls 7-1 record. Their only loss was to the Regional Champions, Kempsville. The girls finished 2nd in district and fourth in regionals. They also competed at state and finished 15th.

The boys' team finished 4th in district and 8th in regionals. The outstanding members for the boys were David Coulter, Scott Grunwald, and Wes Midgett. The girls members were Linda Malone, Patti Barksdale, and Cindy Howard.

Poor in Victories

But Rich in Experience

Although only one game was actually won, frequently the Field Hockey team was drawn into overtime. Indeed, their best game was against Bayside, with the score ending up 2 to 1. Ms. Perley, the coach, felt that a person must have endurance to participate in this sport. She stated, "The game is not for wimps." In comparison with other sports it was noted that more speed, timing, and adaptability was needed. Ms. Perley stressed that timing was extremely important. "A hit one second off could send the ball into your own goal." All players deserved to be congratulated. As co-captain Shari Campbell said, "It was a building year. With the returning experience, we will have a great season next year!" The entire team deserved credit for the goals accomplished, while within the team individual awards were won. Denette Cooke received the most valuable player while Gaynor Fischl received the coach's award. As a note to those who want to play next year, Christi Crockett said, "It's rough, exciting, and you just have to have it!"

A Successful Swat

Coached by Mr. Laferriere the boy's tennis team developed a great number of skills in 1981 abling them to call it a successful season. Making great progress toward a better individual game and team, the boy's were able to bring two teams into district quarter finals. David Colmie in singles and Bill Whaley and David Colmie in doubles both advanced in these quarter rounds. Brent Morgan was voted Most Valuable and Rick Woytich received Most Improved.

The girl's team, although not blessed with a multitude of wins, developed, as well many game skills such as doubles concepts and playing aggressiveness. Strengthening performance throughout the whole season, the girls were able to come back and beat Cox 6-3 after a 7-2 loss earlier this season. Maria Castellano advanced to the quarter finals and the doubles team of Rhonda Hansen and Maria Castellano moved on to the semifinals in the district meet. Angela Williams received Most Improved Player and Maria Castellano was voted Most Valuable. According to the coach, Mr. LaFerriere, the team has a strong future ahead of them.

Shooting Stars

Adversity threatened the boy's team. Injuries and ineligibilities were the root of the problem. The team effort was strong though Frank Anderson's enthusiasm led the way. Jimmy Darby was the leading scorer and was on the charts weekly competing with other team players for most points scored. Randy Hall dominated under the boards and was the team's best defense strategy. Tony Harrell's increased performance this year helped lead the way to a 9-9 season.

Alvin Turner was the most promising sophomore but unfortunately sustained injuries. Shawn Callahan, Tony Harrell, Jimmy Darby, and Frank Anderson will not be returning next year and Coach Cochran hopes that future teams will bring forth dedication and enthusiasm as was contributed by these seniors. The team had loyal supporters but Coach Cochran hopes to see spirit increase as it is great for the team.

A Winning Goal

Whom did the Beacon consider as GRHS's secret weapon? Sonya Summer-ville! She averaged the season with twenty-four points and fourteen rebounds per game. Pam Byrd was the dependable senior point guard. Erika Forrer and Frieda Hurdle were strong returners at guard positions. Janice Johnson and Twyla Kaneakua were aggressive under the boards besides adding in the points. For a bright future, Angie Halloway and Andrea Johnson shine as Coach Hubbell smiles on; a newcomer herself. The season was the best ever as the girl's were tied for first then placed second in the district.

Hey! We've got spirit!

Magical Matmen

Is someone in there?

Long hours of practice paid off for the Stallion wrestlers. They defeated Frederick Military Institute by a score of 68 to 6 just missing the state record for most points scored in a match. The most serious problem the wrestlers had to overcome was hypoglycemia, which is the complete depletion of body sugar build up, causing a complete loss of energy.

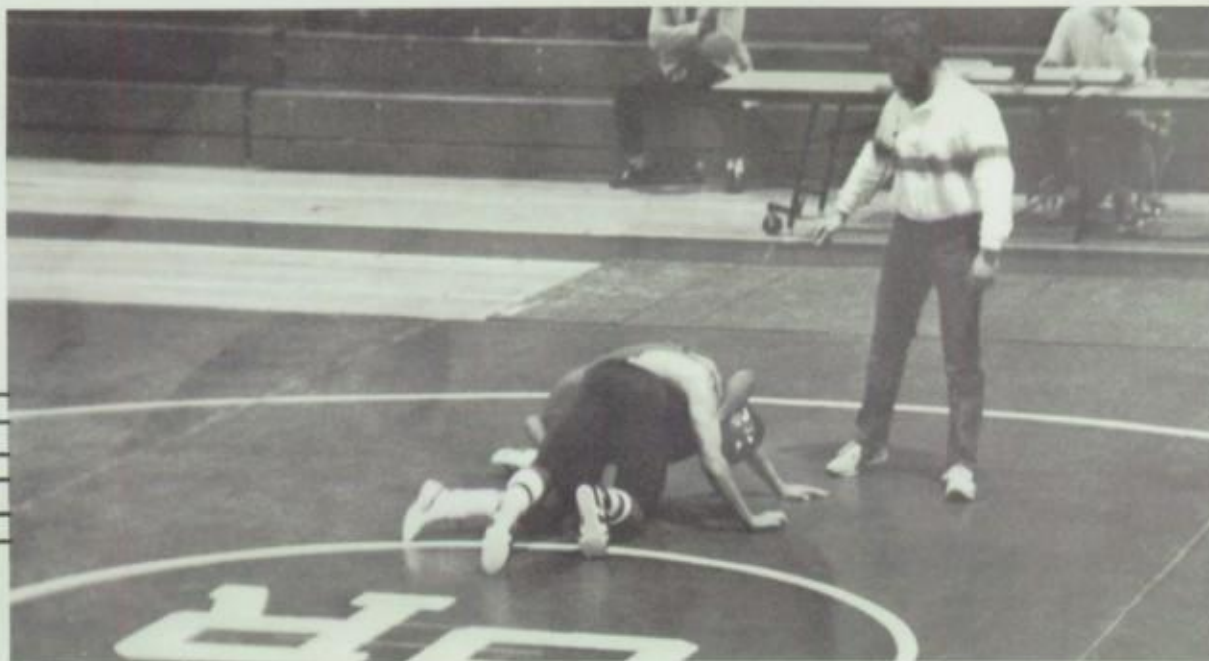

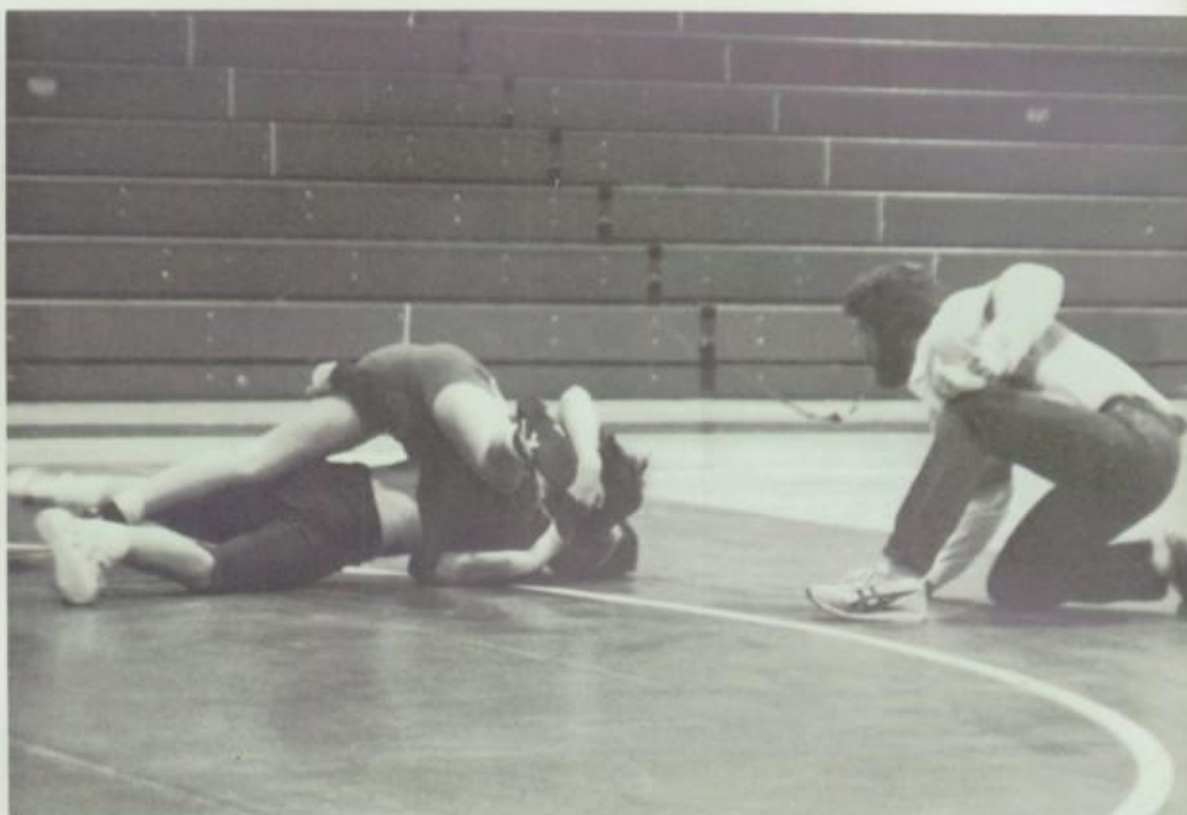

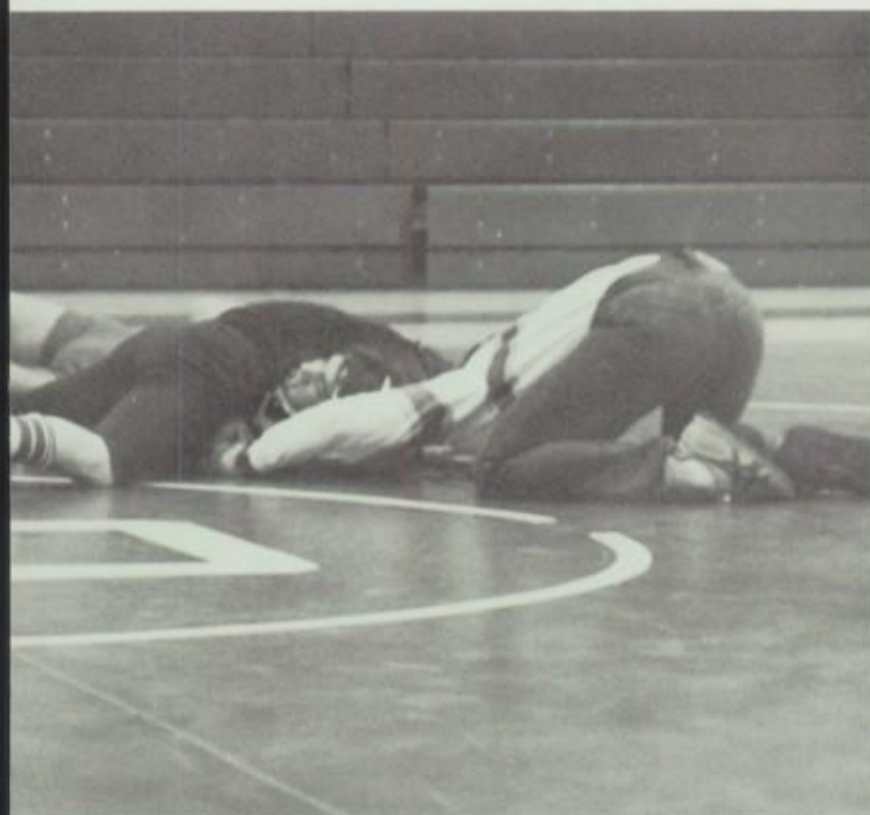

There were many humorous things that happened. One of the funniest was when the bus that was supposed to take the Stallions to their first match never showed up.

The most successful wrestler was Dwayne Curtis, who won regionals last year. Another outstanding wrestler was John Skiptunas. In his second year wrestling he was ranked third in Tidewater at 167. The rest of the team did a fine job also. Their dedication led to a fine year.

Striving To Perfection

It was a strong year and even with a few injuries to team members, they did an outstanding job. Plagued with injuries throughout the season, first with a back injury by Tracy Roberts and later sprained muscles and broken arms by a number of others, the team was still able to advance a few to the district competition. Finally Karen Ryan and Tracy Roberts moved on to the state meet where they competed diligently. Mrs. Emerson, the team coach, remarked that the team concentrated more on individual achievement toward perfection than on competing with others. Perhaps that is why the team was able to do so well and improve so much. It was truly a strong year for girl's gymnastics here at Green Run.

The "Golf Club"

FORE! Down the fairway the tiny golf-ball flew, bounced a few times and dropped into the hole, making the eighteenth hole-in-one. Well, maybe the golf team didn't quite do this well but they never gave up. Pushed forth by their fearless leader Kevin Karcher, and under the almighty rule of Mr. Joyner, the golf team made strong progress toward that perfect game. The team finished fourth in the Beach after missing a win against First Colonial by only one stroke. Greg Coulter was chosen "Most Consistent" in his performance.

In the 1981-82 season the team looked forward to a strong season under commanding officer Tabb Pearson. Good odds were foreseen for a better and more unified team making Green Run golfers a long-inspiring commodity.

Wacking up Wins

Led by co-captains Butch Tecson and Tom McVey, the Boy's Green Run Soccer team had a very successful season ending with a tie for district champions. Despite initial problems with Green Run's field, the team worked hard and long to be the best they could. As soccer player, David Presnell stated, "The 1980-81 soccer season was a successful performance. After beating First Colonial and tying Kempsville, we earned many victories and the respect of the Beach soccer teams." Outstanding players included Andy Conklin, sweeper; Mike McCormick, fullback; Tom McVey, halfback; and Butch Tecson, goalie. Coached by Mr. Varga, the team combined skill, teamwork, and determination and had a great time playing soccer.

A Year of Growth

Tough competition seemed to be synonymous with the Girl's Green Run Soccer. The girl's team was only in its second year of existence, other schools took them VERY SERIOUSLY! Each game the girls played their best and would not give up. Outstanding players were many and among these came some of the in Va.

Beach. Coached by Mr. Hyatt the team became a well spirited family and the players felt their biggest asset was their coach. According to Shari Campbell, "Coach Hyatt was the reason for our closeness as a team and the team is looking forward to another even more successful season."

Battling Basemen

First Colonial was finally defeated! Who was this task accomplished by? No one else but the GREEN RUN STALLIONS! "The win against First Colonial will carry our team off to a good start next season," stated David Ware. Twice during the season David got a base hit, but tripped over first base. Those were some of the funnier moments he could recall. When the baseball team was asked the question, "How has baseball influenced your life?" they first stated that baseball gave them the opportunity to win awards for the accomplishments they have achieved during the season. Baseball also gave them something to work for and the possibility of playing in college...or even with the pros.

Hit and Run

It was a warm day in April, and Yvonne Waldnor hit the ball! As she rounded first she saw the outfielder picking up the ball. Almost there, she knew she made it! This was a typical day at the ballpark with Green Run Softball players. It was obvious that the team had improved in unity and school spirit. One of the best games was against Kempsville, the score: 7-1. That game and the one against Kellam were excellent because both schools were rivals and no errors were made while playing them. It might not have been the best season for winning, but skill was definitely displayed in the P.A. v/s G.R. game. It was the bottom of the 7th and the Stallions were behind by four. Yet in that 7th inning the score was changed, by Stallion skill, to 7-6. Stallions on top again! What a season!

The gun went off, and all you see was a cloud of dust. The runners were sprinting, and pushing themselves to the limit, just to get to the finish line. Thinking of that nice cool drink of water to quench their thirst, they strode on toward victory. When they finally crossed that sacred line on the track, the thrill of triumph carried throughout them all. This was the 1981 track team, a team of winners.

Why could you see crowds of students walking around the halls after school hours working on a variety of projects or setting up displays for the next school day? Well, these people were club members who spent many hours a week after school with club activities. For the few in debate, newspaper, and a large variety of other clubs, it meant a chance to learn extra skills, while in other clubs, such as wargamers or ski, members were able to just relax and have fun. Clubs offered entering sophomores involvement in school activities and let senior members reminisce about the past three years. But for all, clubs were a path to new interests and activities — a path to the future.

having a very successful dance, they raised money for the Joy Fund and had a blood drive. In order to give blood you had to meet certain qualifications. They were: to weigh at least 120 pounds, to be 17 years old or over, and to have your parents permission. As for the Joy Fund, our goal was to collect $500.00 but we more than met our goal by collecting over $800.00. Mrs. Epperson's sixth bell and Mrs. Pasko's fourth bell classes tied for collecting the most money for the Joy Fund. All of Mrs. Pasko's classes together raised the most money in the entire school. They raised almost $200.00.

In March we had any equally successful Dance-A-Thon for the St. Jude's Children's Hospital. Also, the Executive Council of the SCA put together a Thanksgiving basket for a very appreciative, needy family.

These were only a few of the many successful projects that the SCA accomplished during the year.

Heh, heh. We just want a little blood.

Take The Reins

"What will we do next year?" were cries of students wanting to be next year's Senior Senate Officers. How could they live up to the standards set by Lee Shands, Michele Nadeau, Maria Castellano, and other seniors? Well, it's going to be tough. Starting with the STATES concert, seniors raised admiration, the envy of high schools all over Virginia Beach, and a profit of several thousand dollars. The class of '82 made enough money that prom chairman, Michele Nadeau, promised and delivered a spectacular dinner prom for $20. To many, that sounded skimpy, but on May 8 they discovered the committee's hard work and dedication produced a prom exciting enough to be remembered for a life time.

Other fund raisers, such as the magazine subscriptions, allowed the Seniors to have a successful Green Run Pageant. The use of the juke-box in the cafeteria was another benefit of fund raisers.

Seniors even managed to flaunt their talent in the Mouse Trap. Rick Ulmer and Emily Dayrit's performance left the class proud and glowing with praise.

To end the year, the Thoroughbreds said, "Good-luck, Good-times, and GOOD-BYE!"

SPIRIT!! How else could you describe the Junior class? Involved in many projects and fund raising events, the class, led by a strong group of individuals, made tremendous headway in accomplishing a variety of goals. By selling sweatshirts and tickets to their well attended Band Jam, the class increased the amount in their treasury so as to carry out a first rate Ring Dance at the Old Cavalier, the first class ever to do so. The Juniors also sponsored the Sadie Hawkins Dance and a ski trip, as well as winning the first place prize for the Homecoming float competition. :: was a tremendous year for the fantastic Juniors!

Last But Not Least

For the first year in high school, the sophomores did an outstanding job. Membership to class meetings was small but as the year went on, the meetings got bigger. Working toward the goal of a successful Emerald Ball, the Sophomore Senate organized a variety of fundraisers including selling candy and "class of 84" sweaters. Working hard, and enthusiastic toward creating a spirited class such as their Homecoming float, the sophomore class was able to make itself known to the upper-class.

PRIDE

The Band had a Field Show that was awesome. That field shows was the results of discipline and self control. "Power" was the theme of the 1981-82 Marching Green Machine. The Woodwinds, Brass, and Percussion with the visual effects from the Color Guard performed a powerful exhibition of style and precision.

The Green Run Marching Stallions consisted of an outstanding Color Guard and a talented band. The Marching Stallions impressed the halftime audiences with the perfect execution of a very difficult show. Along with their halftime performances, the band and guard participated in a few fall competitions. Among those attended were the Lynchburg Classic and State Competition in Richmond.

Petersburg Festival of the States which they attended in the spring.

Without the loyalty and brilliant leadership of Ronald Collins and William Bois, color guard captains Stephanie Kellett and Debbie Brooks, and drum major Jason Lunday, we would have not have had a band and guard that we could be so proud of.

In order to raise money for the trips the marching band members sold crates and crates of oranges, millions and millions of M&M's (dangerously importing them past suspicious officials), and money books for only $2.00. All this was done through enthusiastic attitudes and a driving spirit to succeed.

Mrs. Allen's colorful personality helped lead the chorus through another successful year. Filled with students dedicated to perfecting total control of their vocal abilities, Green Run's chorus and the elite Madrigals performed at several concerts this year to the delight of their audiences. Not only do they sing well together and in individual competitions, but over thirty students from Green Run were selected to participate in Regional Chorus. The excellent tradition and high standards set by the chorus have been upheld and strengthened this year — a credit to Mrs. Allen and her enthusiastic singers.

Dramatic Experiments

Do you remember coming into school one day last December and seeing Santa Claus, the ghost of Christmases, and a walking Christmas tree? Well, don't worry! You weren't going crazy! Those were the Thespians who dressed up like that to collect money. Besides dressing up, the Thespians had several other projects. They put on three plays — the senior play, a three act drama, and a spring musical. They also staged a play for the one act play contest.

In order to become a Thespian, one had to have a certain amount of points which were accumulated by acting in a play, working on a crew, or seeing a professional play.

When the Science Club did things, they did them big. Even though the club did not have a large membership, the few that were a part worked efficiently to organize and run some important events. Early in the year club members took a trip down to the beach to plant dune grass. This was done in order to save the eroding beach dunes by holding the sand. Later on, the Science Club, along with the Science department sponsored the school science fair, by no means an easy task. All worked well, though, as the Science Club met their final and biggest goal of making a trip to the World's Fair at Knoxville, Tennessee. The fair was full of exhibitions relating to science, as well as many other fields, and was a great goal to end the year with. All in all, the Science Club was involved.

'It's All Greek To Me!'

Who were those boys in shorts and suspenders? And why were those girls wearing aprons with their dresses?

Before you ask any more questions, these people were the Green Run High School German Dancers. Those outfits were their costumes. Each year the German Club goes to various functions to perform.

The German Club (Deutsch Klub) performed several times a year. This year they performed at the Pavillion and at the Foreign Language night at Kempsville Junior High. More performances were scheduled, including a performance at Lynnhaven Mall for a foreign language week.

The German Club didn't only dance; they had parties and other fun activities too. Each year they raised money through various fun raisers to attend the German Convention in the spring. However, this year the German Club planned to go to the Pennsylvania Dutch Country.

The officers for 1981-82 were President — John Edmonds, Vice President — Billy Flowe, Secretary — Kathy Mai, Treasure — Lori Bassett, and Historian — John Knall.

If you were interested in history and still wanted to use a language, then the Latin Club was for you! Known as one of the more fun-loving clubs they worked as well on educational projects. Early in the year many club members attended the statewide Latin Scholastic Convention where reports were given and awards were handed out on the basis of academic achievement. Soon after the club had a Christmas dinner to celebrate the way Romans celebrated the holiday season. The Latin Club is truly interested in history.

One of the more active clubs this year was the enthusiastic French Club. Sponsored by Miss Keel they were dedicated to advancing the knowledge and culture of students in French history and customs. The club was involved in many activities to reach their goal. They sponsored a French Club float at Homecoming, sold carnations to raise money, went caroling at Christmas time, and set up a booth at the Foreign Language Fair at Pembroke Mall and many other activities. By openly displaying buttons and French costumes, club members were able to make themselves known to the student body and to the community through their activities. A truly exciting club!

Business Cents

Students in the Distributive Education and Fashion Merchandising classes were all members of DECA. Through DECA, students had the opportunity to grow personally and develop leadership. Out of these Green Run students form the leaders of tomorrow.

The Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, or VICA as it's members knew it, was busy preparing themselves for the "... world of work." Miss Call, the sponsor, and her students worked on fund raising projects such as doughnut sales, and collecting for the Joy Fund. VICA contest, which were: job applications, job interviews, essays, and cosmetology contests.

Cooperative Office Education has given business students the opportunity to gain on-the-job training in business firms in our community. COE students' schedules were arranged so that they attended classes part of the day and were employed in offices during the other part of the day.

Some of these students were secretaries, bookkeepers, receptionists, clerk typists, and dental assistants. Employers in the Virginia Beach area agreed to help train these students for positions in office occupations.

One of the more educational clubs was the F.B.L.A. composed of students with a great interest in the business world, the F.B.L.A. put together a large list of activities for money-making, community service, competition, and socializing. The club was involved in the March of Dimes' Mansion of Terror, regional, state, and national competitions, and in setting up panel discussions and job interview seminars. Through these activities F.B.L.A. members were able to develop business skills in leadership, confidence, enthusiasm, management, making goals, and becoming better well-rounded.

Students came from classes in Business Law, Accounting, Typing, Stenography, notehand, and others. After showing an interest in this field, they became members. The officers were President Cathy Przybyzowski, Vice-President Pat Finn, Treasurer Janice Pascua, Corresponding Secretary Debbie Blanchard, Recording Secretary Cydie Greene, Historian John Skiptunas, and Reporter Lisa Brooks. One hundred and nine members in all helped to make it one of the largest clubs at school. The F.B.L.A. made itself known.

March on Christian Soldiers

"Are you ready?!"

"Yes," the Young Lifers screamed. Each Tuesday night a mass of students gathered at the Timberlake Clubhouse to sing, scream, and laugh at the famous "minutes". It was a lot of fun; however, Young Life, FCA, and Basics all had a more serious Christian outlook as well.

Glenn LaFerriere, with the help of Sandy Segal and several others, sponsored Young Life. Over Thanksgiving vacation local groups from throughout Tidewater had a group meeting at Nags Head. In early summer, Young Life groups from all over the country will be going on a week-long retreat at Saranac, New York.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes was a group of students who met once a week, or every other week, at community leader Ed Sadler's home. They had several retreats and community projects. Interested in the same basic concepts as the others, the FCA was a club for compassion and friendship open to all.

Basics stands for Brothers and Sisters in Christ Sharing. It was a service club that met every two weeks for a formal meeting. Each morning members gathered before school to pray as a way of starting the day. Among community projects were caroling in nursing homes and creating a tranquil atmosphere at school. Basics was for those who wanted that morning uplift.

With Supervision from Commander Dow, the ROTC had another successful year. The award winning Color Guard started off each game to present the flag while the Band or Pam Green performed the Star Spangled Banner.

ROTC, however, was not just an after school activity. Every morning they put the American flag up. During the day they took courses that taught them Naval history, Navigation, Seamanship, Meteorology, and Customs and Traditions.

These dedicated students were taught discipline and hard work. They also learned skills such as marching in color guard, drill teams, and rifle teams.

The most important concept learned in ROTC was pride; if they weren't proud to be in ROTC, they wouldn't be in it.

Service With a Smile

There was more to clubs than just special interests. One such club devoted to helping the school and community was the Key Club. Sponsored by Mr. Worrell, the Key Club was involved in many activities, including visits to rest homes, selling mugs, and working on setting up a counseling services for students. Each Key Club was sponsored by a Kiwanis Club who helped out with activities. Our club worked with the Bayside Kiwanis.

What exactly did the members get from being a part of the club? Well, they got a strong sense of accomplishment in helping others as well as leadership, citizenship, and initiative characteristics. Over all, they felt good about themselves and isn't that what it's all about?

"Civitan Cares" and "Civitan Helps People" were the slogans for the Junior Civitan Club. They performed numerous money making and service projects around the school and community. Often, the club raised money to benefit the Association for Retarded Citizens and the Special Olympics. That was done by various money making projects such as "Tag Day," and "Green Stamps." "Tag Day" was when the club went to a public place and collected donations for the Special Olympics. Often the total sum came to $200.00 a day. Green Stamps were donated by Belo Markets to Civitan Clubs. Then the club went to Camp Civitan in Chesapeake, a summer camp for the retarded citizens, to lick the Green Stamps. Well, they weren't actually licked on; however, they were put on with a sponge. Belo paid $2.00 for each book. Frequently, the clubs around Tidewater had a total of about 700 books, which meant the clubs received $140.00. The money was then donated to Camp Civitan and used for special equipment among other useful items.

The Ski, Volleyball, and Modern Dance Clubs were very sports oriented. The Modern Dance Club practiced in the commons area every afternoon, Volleyball practiced in the Gym, and the Ski Club met often to plan various skiing trips. The Modern Dance Club gave various performances this year, and the Ski Club went on several trips. These clubs made this past year very exciting.

I'm telling you, One size fits all.

La Creme de la Creme

"I'm a colt breaking into become a Stallion until the end." Did you see students wearing these signs? If so, you saw the future Monogram Club members. This club's extreme fun and excitement was produced by lettered athletes. Being one of the largest clubs, it stood out with Stallion spirit. The members all wore thick kelly green jackets and big smiles. Green Run High School was proud of these outstanding athletes.

Green Run was full of special-interest clubs to fit one's particular taste and if history was your passion, there was a club. The Historical Society, even though small in members, was without a doubt one of the more educational and interesting clubs. Sponsored by Mrs. Hill and Mr. Eley with ruling President Tabb Pearson, the Society went on a few field trips to some of the historical sights in the area, including a one day trip to Williamsburg early in the spring. Yes Virginia was the area for historical sights and the Green Run Historical Society took full advantage of the situation. If you were one who was not in seeing the sights, maybe you enjoyed chasing vans on the way up.

Ranked at the top of the class, Maria Acedo was an excellent choice as President of the Club promoting citizenship, leadership, and scholarship. The National Honor Society was a service club that achieved in many fund raising efforts in order to help the school and community. Many fellow students appreciated the NHS members for selling inexpensive posters as thoughtful gifts for friends during the holidays, but the more noted attribute, and most likely the most appreciated, was the Club's contribution to the tutoring service.

Those students who took Foods, Independent Living, Marriage and Family, Home Economics, and Interior Design had the opportunity to join the FHA or Future Homemakers of America. The FHA was a co-curriculum club. This meant that every class was a club in itself. The major project of the year was the National Vocational Week, which was February 7-13. They also participated in the Snowball Dance, which was held in December. Green Run also belonged to the Beach Federation of Homemakers. One student was selected to attend the Federation meetings which were held once a month.

Cheering On Victory

"Being a Cheerleader isn't as easy as it looks," sighed a cheerleader as she hurried to a wrestling match one late evening. Along with knowing the cheers, Green Run's fourteen spirited beauties had to divide themselves into squads and decide which squad covered which event.

Besides providing school spirit at football games and other athletic events, the cheerleaders sold Spirit Ribbons to promote attendance at the games and also surprised the members of the teams with spirit boosters to remind them that Green Run was rooting for them. Cheerleaders were another, if not the most important reason to be proud of Green Run.

The Cheerleaders — leading a cheer.

Let Me Make One Thing Perfectly Clear . . .

Have you ever carted an entire file cabinet to school on the bus? If not, then you weren't on the award winning debate team. When you walked by the auditorium everyday in between classes, you may have noticed the trophy case. These were all won by the Affirmative Side, the Negative Side, and the Switch Side of the Debate Team.

Green Run has been a member of the National Forensic League for two years now. The purpose of this organization is to honor scholars who have, also, distinguished themselves in speaking. The national organization boasts alumni who are leaders in all walks of life. Someday, the members of the Green Run chapter will be among that exclusive group.

Green Run is the only Virginia Beach School that is an NFL member and one of the only two schools in Tidewater. Due to the outstanding speech record compiled by Green Run, the five year waiting period for a full charter was waived for GRHS by the national committee.

The Green Run Forensics Team continued its quest to win a city championship. Although the team has finished first in poetry reading, original oratory, and prose reading, Green Run has yet to capture the team championship.

Photos and Feuds

Look at this picture carefully! Someone in may become the National Chess Champion someday. This group of chess players have been strategically calculating the position of each pawn, knight, bishop, and rook to protect their King and Queen from their opponent who may have calculated just as much to counteract their opponent's calculations.

When it comes to a club that can get things done quickly, the Photo Club can do it in a FLASH!

The 1981-82 Green Run Photography Club was actively involved in many areas including printing, silk screen printing, and photography. This year the club worked with color slides, prints, and a $10,000 typesetter computer received by the school. The club took a trip to Washington, D.C. and participated in local and state Industrial Arts Fairs. Winners included: Todd Baumgardner, Rodney Alejandro, Steve Sapphire, Mark Vick, and Leonard Incognito received a first place award in color slide. The awards were presented at Kings Dominion. So, although Green Run may not have seen much of them, their cameras saw plenty of you!

Now, one may ask, "How could a club like Wargammers go on field trips?" Well, possibly they weren't called Field Trips, but the club went anyway. Through diligent research and careful planning the club was able to capture two local stores dealing in these types of games. The "Dragon's Cave" and "Campaign Headquarters" were two likely spots to find interested club members searching for the right tools and traps for dragon snares or maybe more pieces to "Starship Troopers." Whatever the fact, the Wargammers met because they had a common purpose in mind. They enjoyed playing complicated and deeply technical games. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Lyons, these students were able to fulfill their fantasies of dungeons, space battles, and world dominance — on gameboards, of course.

Made up of a trained crew of students, the Video Cassette Club was an important group of students who added to the uniqueness of Green Run. Even though they were usually seen behind the scene, they were an important part of the lasting memory of the school. The members were involved extensively in video taping sporting events and classroom presentations so that either the recording could be preserved for a teaching aid for teachers, or for critiquing the student's own presentation. To be a member of the club, a student had to take a class in video taping and in audio/video equipment. After passing a test the student became a certified operator and was allowed to operate the equipment. Once he obtained membership it all began. Many operators spent bells in school helping teachers video taping presentations or give up a night filming sporting events. Thanks to the guidance of the sponsor Mrs. Love, the group was organized and the right people went to the right place where needed. Thanks to an enthusiastic club, Green Run will have a memory of these events.

After recovering from slight concussions, delivered from their fearless sponsor, Mrs. Pasko, the 1981-82 Equus staff rolled into action. Deadlines were the dreaded facts confronted; however, they weren't the only problems the collaboration of editors and assistant editors had to face. Writing copy, re-taking pictures, identifying pictures, drawing layouts and doing unnecessary copy spacing were just a select few.

reason to read the school newspaper. Written to inform, educate, entertain, and investigate for the student body, the newspaper staff went to great lengths to produce a high quality paper. Over hill and dales through countless interviews, carefully avoiding hall monitors' and making trecherous trips to the printers, the staff of Hoofprints captured Green Run at its best.

The newspaper staff violently fought closing deadlines, unruly doughnut men, and a variety of other obstacles while still getting an education out of it. Made up of Journalism students with a study hall bell workers, the staff went to workshops and book tours of newspaper instructors so that Hoofprints could be the best ever. Edited by Ros Anderson and managing editor Dana Williams with sponsor Mrs. Hopkins, a staff of diligent workers were able to find the spirit of Green Run.

Along with a Yearbook and a Newspaper, Green Run also had a Literary Arts Magazine. Pegasus consisted of poems, short stories, satirical essays, and art work. The dedicated members put the whole magazine together themselves. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Sharer, the Literary Arts Magazine was a welcome part of Green Run.

“What is a Sophomore?”

Do you remember entering the halls on the first day of school and seeing a mass of munchkins bumping into walls, doorknobs, and your belt buckles? Well, yes — these were the sophomores of '82. There was a lot of mystery surrounding the appearance of the first sophomore early in the summer but what was known of them was that they came to high school their first year filled with plenty of excitement and enthusiasm; ready for a year of hard-work and personal maturing. It was a big step to take in becoming a sophomore but the new crop of '82 looked like a winning share.

Remember the library? That's where you met Mike for the first time. High school memories were made in that room full of books. Term papers and book reports that saved your life were written there. Perhaps the library is the most loved 'class' in school.

'Friends Forever'

A friend is someone that you really love. They can share all of your joys or sorrows and they help to get you through those long school days.

Teenage years are hard and sometimes parents don't seem to understand us. Friends do understand. They will be there to help on those days when nothing seems to go right.

Friendship is one of the most precious things life has given us.

"What is that sound?"

According to some of the teachers, a complicated language has been invented by the students to describe a myriad of subjects pertaining to the life at school. They use such remarks when conversing about members of the opposite sex, parties, ways to dress, cars, teachers, courage of conviction, pizza, grades, and songs by STYX on the radio. By listening to students carefully, one can hear expressions that relate to many topics:

Woah! ... Excellent!! ... Punk out! ... to the max! ... SPAZ! Go for it! ... ooh!ah-hh!ugggh! ... I'm doomed! ... this is it!

"Buses and Buses ... Where is my bus?"

Think back to the first day of school. It was two and the bell had just rung. Then you realized, "Where is my bus?" They all looked the same! Running between busses you screamed, "Where is bus #198?" Finally you saw it just as the door was closing. "Wait for me!" Then at last you were safely on the bus with friends. How great it was to be in school again on that first day!

'... not a cake walk!'

"This is a fire drill, not a cake walk!!!" announced Mr. French as once again students were herded out. Teachers yelled, "I'm taking roll outside!" while masses of the students dashed out of school toward the parking lot. Sophomores screamed, "Is it really a fire?" while juniors tried to act cool — by not acting the same as they had the previous year. While everyone eagerly waited outside before returning to class, students talked to others, did homework from the night before, and crammed for the test the firebell had saved them from. Finally the "all clear" was given and the students dragged their bodies slowly back into class.

"Is there a fire?"

C.O.E. in a Junior's life

Juniors have many expenses to pay. The class ring for one, along with paying for the ring dance, and trying to buy a car. To help pay for these things, the C.O.E. class was an excellent class to get involved in. It helps teach you about what your responsibilities are for taking a job. You keep that job throughout the year and for as long as you can keep it.

It gives students a chance to develop skills necessary in the business world. Some of GRH's students had jobs at police stations, Winn Dixie, dentist offices, and various offices. These jobs and learning experiences gave students a jump in the world of business.

Juniors take it all

Flagging Spirit and flimsy floats were nowhere to be found as the Junior Class gave the Seniors and Sophomores a run for their money. They won "most spirited" at the Homecoming pep rally and their float won first place in the Corvette-Laden parade.

Dreaded Exams

Bringing everyone down

When June rolls around, thoughts are changing from term papers, work, and keeping warm — to beach, sun, fun — and final exams. Now, if you were an Hon- or Grad, you were lucky enough not to have to worry about exams. For the others, however, exam time meant lots of review, late nights studying, and shorter than usual fingernails. Trying to cram 178 days' worth of learning into a two hour test isn't easy for the teachers or the students.

For teachers, exam time meant the ultimate evaluation of their ability. How many of those students were they going to have in the same classes again next year?

Passing, not failing was the concern of the students. Numerous studying tactics were used; such as, cramming, praying, and absorbing mental energy from ultraviolet rays.

Stacy Downing's term paper is coming right along.

PUNK OUT!

RAD!! Hey, That's Hot!!!
DEVO-ated! Prep used to sweep the school, but this was the year for punk. Camouflage pants, zebra skin shirts, hot pink lipstick, psychedelic vans and pins proclaiming "THE POLICE" are everywhere!! Some punkers went so far as to cut their hair until there was about an inch left on top. Some even dyed their hair green. Punkers were definitely dedicated to their fad.

English?!

Would you believe English was a foreign language? Well, if you walked into some English classes and heard students saying words like Ibid, Op cit, Biblio, Ed, you might think it was. Actually, it was the new craze everyone was talking about — termpaper jargon. Students couldn't seem to get enough of it. However, this craze wasn't all fun and games. Such diseases as Writer's Cramp, Thinkitis, and Steinbeck-aphobia have been known to develop from prolonged exposure to termpapers. Luckily, these diseases were not fatal. The cure was three months of summer sun.

THOROUGHBREDS

Sophomores and Juniors finally had something in common with the Seniors — forevermore our school will be producing full, instead of half-breeds. That is why the graduating class was proud to name themselves the "Thoroughbreds." True blooded Stallions started their high school career as sophomores in our red, blue, and yellow stall — oops — halls. Not only were we 100% Green Runners, being the richest class in the city, we were also a champion line. Using great initiative the officers got the concert rolling, Homecoming pep rally rowdy, and made prom a success. This year's Thoroughbreds have started the race for maintaining a degree of excellence for all future Seniors.

The best of 82'

Mario and Maria graduating from Harvard? Steve linebacking for the Cowboys, while Linda wins the Gold on the 1984 Olympic track team? John and Suzy holding first chairs in the New York Philharmonic? Pat chasing crooks down an alley with Marina waiting at the end with fifty thousand Police cars? David moving to Walden Pond as Tiffany seeks the Far East? Or how about David and Vicki holding

Mr. and Miss America titles? Well, maybe it won't turn out exactly this way in the future, but for now, these are the senior superlatives. Chosen for a certain outstanding aspect, these students were voted on by the senior class to represent a variety of differing personalities, and unusual tastes. Because of these specialties, they were able to fill the Senior class with the varying and exciting the class led.

Graduating with honors

The Seniors of 82' were the best and greatest. Yet there were some who went beyond just being a Senior. They were the Honor Grads. People like Michele Nadeau, Teresa McFarlane, and Stacy Downie held this title. With pride in their school and self they pushed to excel in their academic levels. Many people achieved the required grades. All Honor Grads. deserved to have been congratulated.

Money, Money,

Where did it all go? "I only bought pictures, grad announcements, prom night, cap and gown, and . . ." are the famous last words of a Senior. As a Senior it wasn't easy. More money was needed to get out of school than to get in. The cheapest senior pictures were $60.00, grad announcements ranged from $10.00 to $60.00, prom night cost at least $200.00, and cap and gown was still $10.00 more. Seniors had to spend approximately $400.00 to graduate. Then the bills came in for college. Does it ever end?

"More money" says Karen Rackely

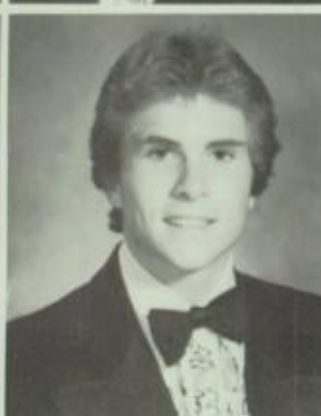

Frank handing it out again.

Insanity in the Senior

INSANE

Only Senior Privilege

If you saw a senior doing something crazy this year, you shouldn't have been too quick to pass judgement on him. You had to stop to consider all of the crises that the seniors had to face: SAT's ... college applications ... Financial Aid Forms ... Class Ranks ... keeping grades up ... term papers ... tests ... finding a date for the Prom ... Finding money to take your date to the Prom ... Graduation Announcements ... Senior pictures ... Sophomores! So, remember, the seniors had the right to be insane: After all, if you had to go through thirteen years of school only to face senior "horrors", you'd be crazy, too!

Freshmen?!

They made it to the top. They were the best . . . The Seniors. Then off to college. That place you filled out thirty forms in triplicate just to attend, not including scholarships; loans; basic grants; money; and MONEY! What happened to the great seniors as they took that BIG step? Mothers cried and fathers took you upstairs for a grown-up talk. Little sisters and brothers finally looked up to you. You were free — You were your own person. And all of this was for what? So the mighty Seniors could be FRESHMAN!

Is she ready for college?

The "Mousetrap"

Friday the 13th wasn't an unlucky day last November for the Senior Class or the Thespians. That night was their first performance of Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap," a murder mystery set in England. The play, which ran for 12 consecutive years in London, went very well. Outstanding performances were given by all, especially Jay Sharp as the psychotic murderer. Who suspected him? The atmosphere outside the play was as professional as it was inside, with the usherettes in white tuxedos and the ticket takers in their formal dresses.

Naturally, before the play started everyone was nervous. But as makeup was applied and costumes were put on, the familiarity of the routine calmed everyone down, so by the time the house lights came up, everything was set.

"What do you think of Seniors?"

Ms. Wall said, "I don't work with them this year, but as juniors they showed a lot of promise." Did the Class of '82 live up to the expectation? "The seniors are very competitive at GRHS, they are the best in Virginia Beach, not only because of their successful money-making efforts, but because they have always aimed high to achieve their goals", was Ms. Coleman's response as co-advisor for the senior class. The success probably was the product of Mrs. Brock's popular opinion; "This year the senior class showed more pride in GRHS and in being a part of GRHS." Mr. French agreed as he earnestly pronounced that the seniors were "more of what Green Run should be — they represented spirit and importance of tradition because they were the first true graduates from our school." On top of that he added appreciatively that they were "most cooperative to work with." "Always room for improvement", said Mr. LaFrier and added that the seniors had "strong leaders, but not enough followers." An anonymous Thoroughbred added that '82 "could have been better if everyone would have fulfilled their promises of responsibility!"

Nonetheless, the path of the seniors will be hard one to follow. Even so, Carlos Moore though they were "second to the sophomores." Hopefully the sophomores will strive to better GRHS, but there is no doubt that they will be traveling down a paved road, unlike the first-time Stallions. Mr. Massey described them as "one of the most dynamic groups of individuals in the state. "Fantastic!" stated Mr. Tepo in his John Wayne rustic voice. "With the exception of a few, the senior class of '82 has done an outstanding job in citizenship and in appreciating the privilege of obtaining an education." Pat Finn, our Unsung Hero, adequately summed it up with, "The senior class will leave the greatest mark for the future of GRHS and it will take a lot to match our achievements and all 1982 seniors should be PROUD!"

Stallion Spirit

"We are the best!" You could hear Seniors, Juniors, and Sophomores alike. All were screaming and showing their Stallion pride.

Michele Nadeau lead everyone at an exciting pep rally. With the Juniors winning the spirit competition and coach Harris singing, students got ready for Homecoming.

Obviously the pep rally was a success when the Stallions stomped a victory over Granby.

Coach Harris Sings us to Victory.

The STATES in 82'

To most people the word states means a section of U.S. like Virginia, Georgia, and Tennessee, etc. But to the students of Green Run, the States are one of Virginia Beach's favorite bands. This year the group "States" has become increasingly popular. Their most popular songs are "Saturday Night" and "Picture Me With You". October 16 the Senior Class sponsored the States concert in Green Run gymnasium. Following the warm-up band, the Jets, the main event began! Girls were drooling at the front line, while those who insisted on sitting, kept time with the music. After arousing applause the States returned for three encores.

Overall, the concert was a success. Thanks go to the teachers who chaperoned and the Senior Class. With expert organization and leadership, the "class of 82" was able to book a first rate concert. The "Class of 82" last year sponsored the Robin Thompson concert, the first of its kind in Virginia Beach Schools, and with the States concert the Senior Class went above and beyond.

Super Senior II

Has Krypton blessed our school? Not only has Steve Lambert amazed us with athletic determination but Cathy Przybyszewski never ceased supplying our clubs and organizations with leadership ability. What is it about these two? Are they something mystical, that they could reach such heights? Not according to Coach Rhodes. He thought "The main thing about Steve was that he was the most outstanding athlete I've ever worked with. He was not just a very good football player but an outstanding individual." As for Cathy, Pam Greene Vice Pres. of SCA, replied, "Fantastic! She was always, always ready to work, and she was absolutely dependable." Mr. Massey has seen Cathy work so hard that he said she's "one of the hardest workers whose never heard about or given enough credit to."

Why did seniors as these put forth such an effort? Were they sent from some out-of-space high school to promote spirit—Well — of course not! Cathy just wants to spread the news that "alot of clubs want to strive for higher goals but apathy really hurts them. If more people would take advantage of what is offered, a more traditional and spirited environment would be established." If one were to question her ability at coming upon this remark — simply check her senior stats.

Steve was in the newspaper so often that one would think him a superman type, but he stated "that being Green Run's first all state player" was the highest honor he could have been given. Why? He certainly had alot of honors and being picked to an all state team is outstanding even without being the school's first. "I don't think I would have made any of those teams without being at Green Run. The coaches, the team, and the school made it possible for getting me the recognition," was his answer for his success.

Steve and Cathy graduated leaving much behind. Colleges such as Wake Forest and one in Florida will hopefully provide them with the education to pass the bar exam, for both wished to become lawyers. These seniors, as many were in '82, were nothing supernatural — but naturally SUPER.

LUNCH?

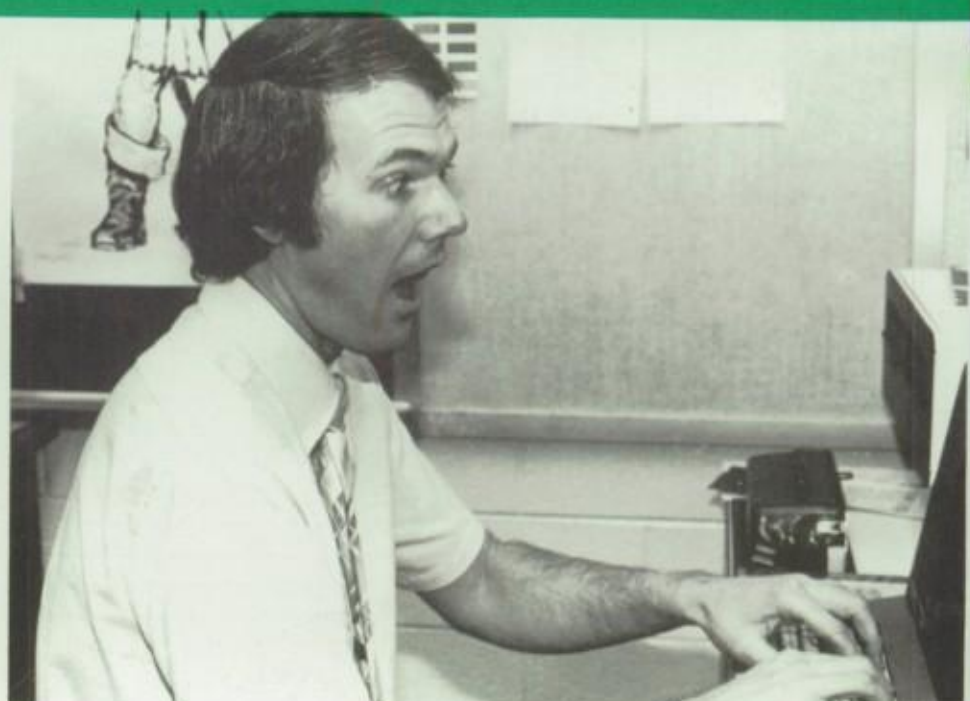

GO PLACIDLY AMID THE NOISE AND HASTE ...

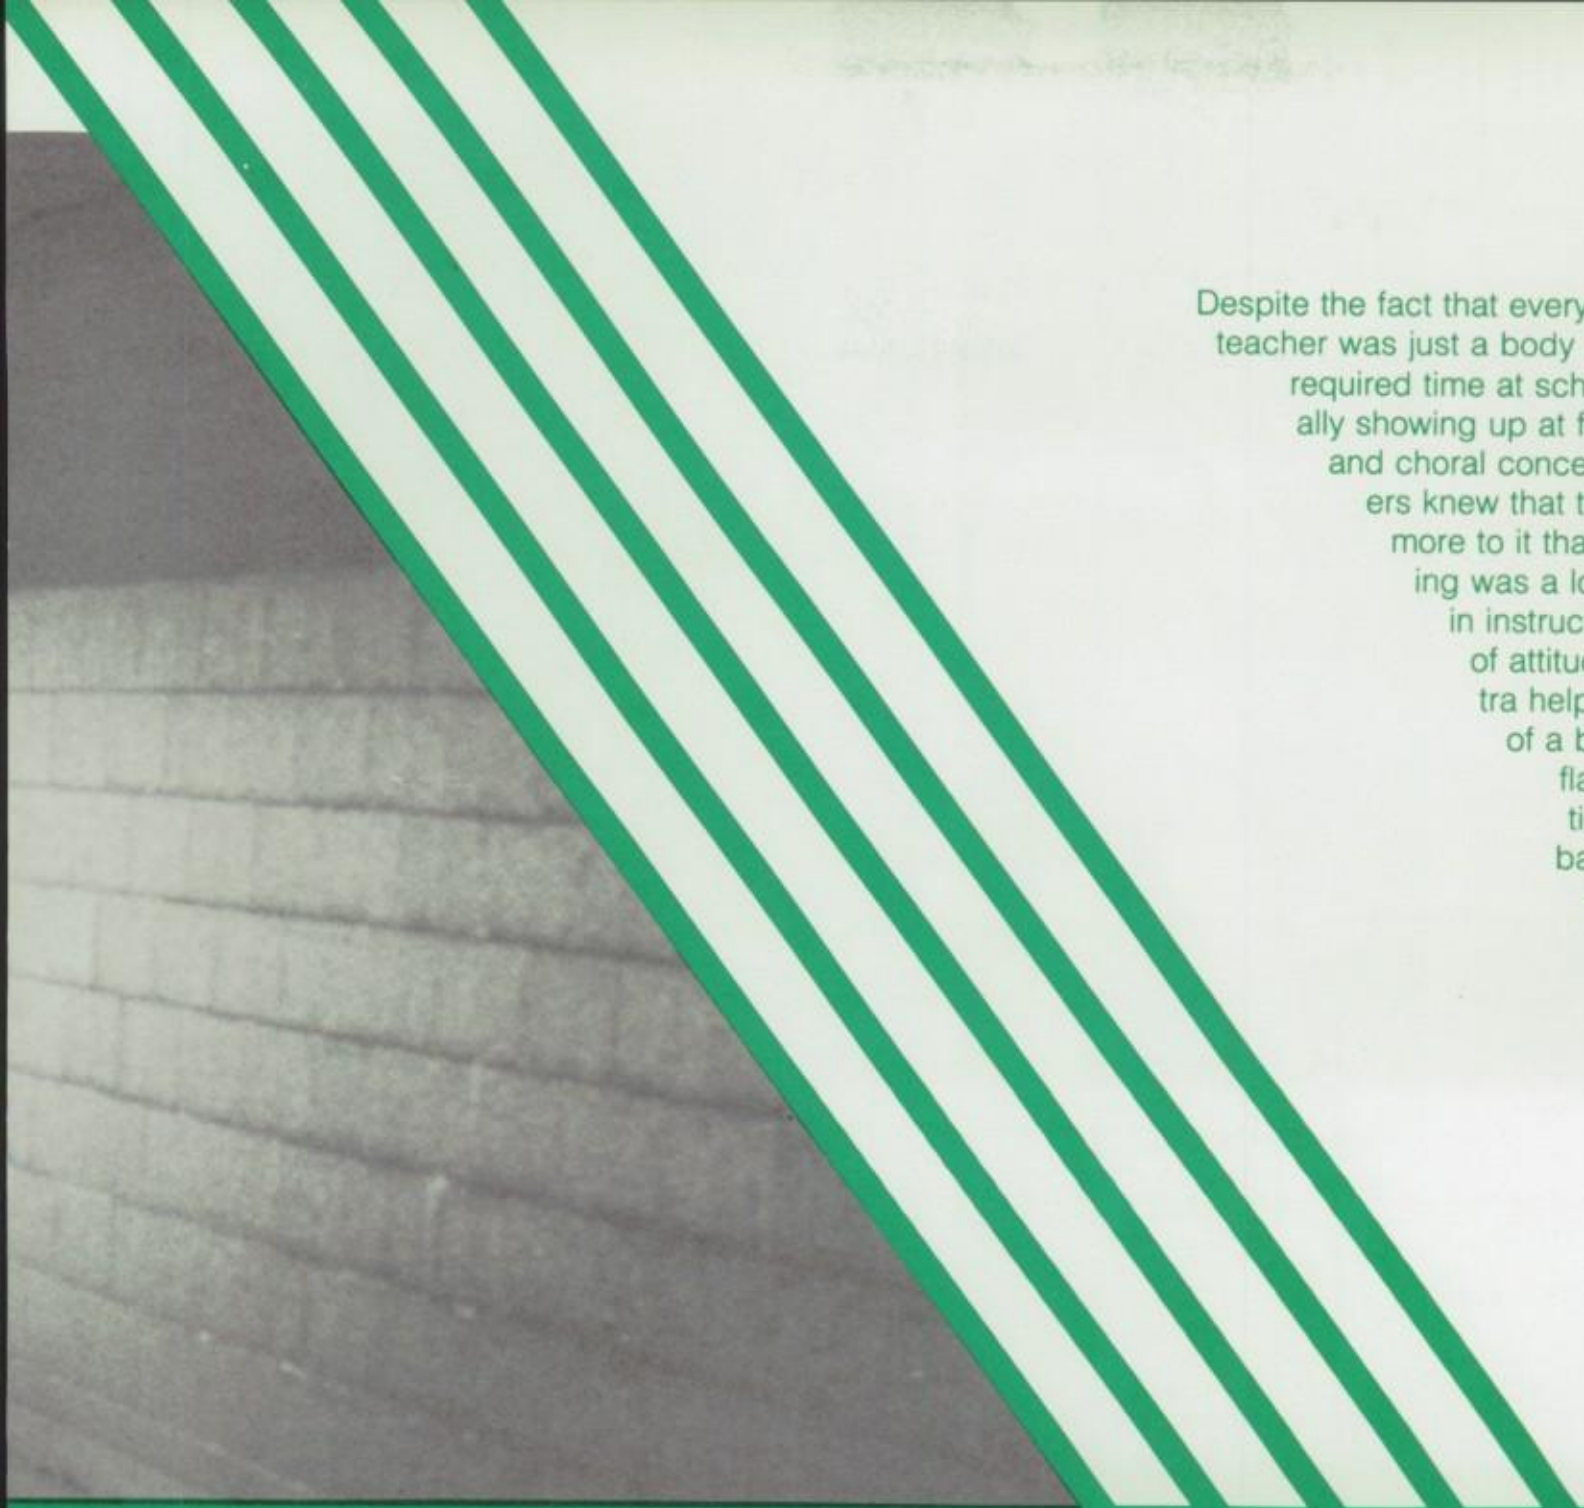

The inventive Senior mind.

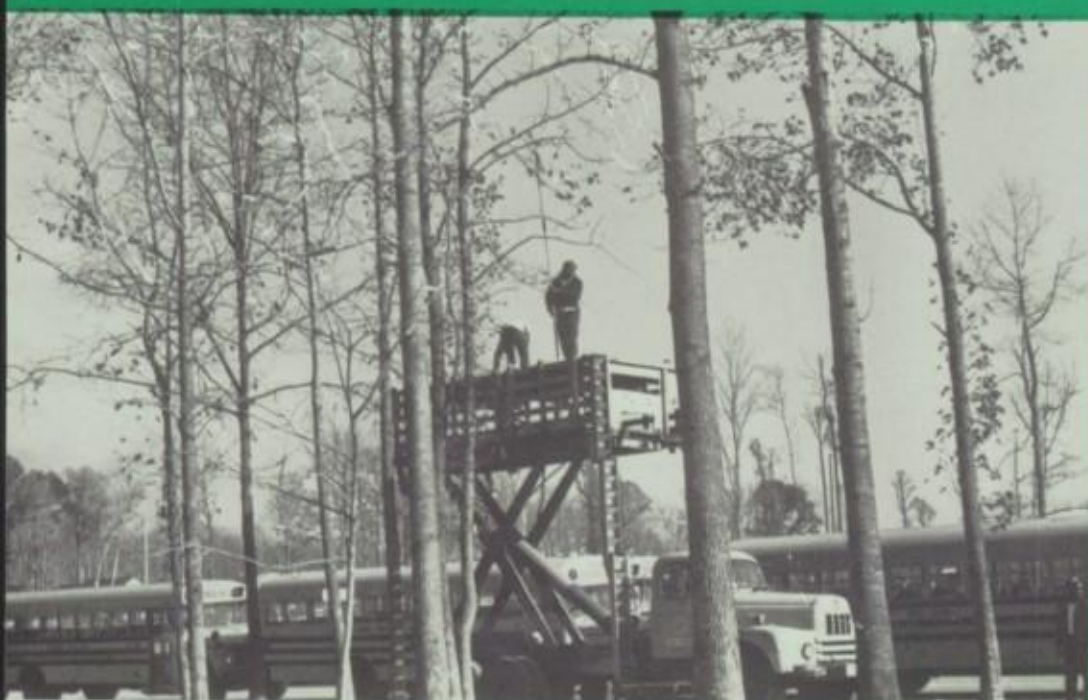

Despite the fact that everyone thought a teacher was just a body who spent the required time at school, occasionally showing up at football games and choral concerts, the teachers knew that there was a lot more to it than that. Teaching was a lot of discipline in instruction, tolerance of attitudes, aid in extra help, sponsorship of a bunch of noisy flag girls, direction of the football team where everyone was bigger, and a variety of others showing they cared.

FACULTY

Administration

How did Green Run function? How did the school get funding for costly programs? How did we keep books in the library? Why is their air??? The administration, under the direction of Mr. Wylie French, was the major source of this kind of information. They were the people who directed major decisions affecting functions of the school. They made decisions concerning discipline problems, after-school activities, monetary output, along with other important problems that most of us did not even know had to be made. Remember those smiling faces walking down the hallways? Those were actually concerned faces alert to anything that seemed to be a little out of order, faces ready to give a needed hand in times of trouble. For sure, these were the kind faces of the administration, the faces of hard and diligent work. Unknown to many of us, they helped us so we could do the same for ourselves.

Mr. French models the 1981-82 school dress code for spring-wear.

Guidance/Office Staff

Filing schedules ... processing applications ... making announcements ... caring for a bruise or cut ... all those duties were performed by the office and guidance staff. These were the people who kept things running smoothly for you and your classmates.

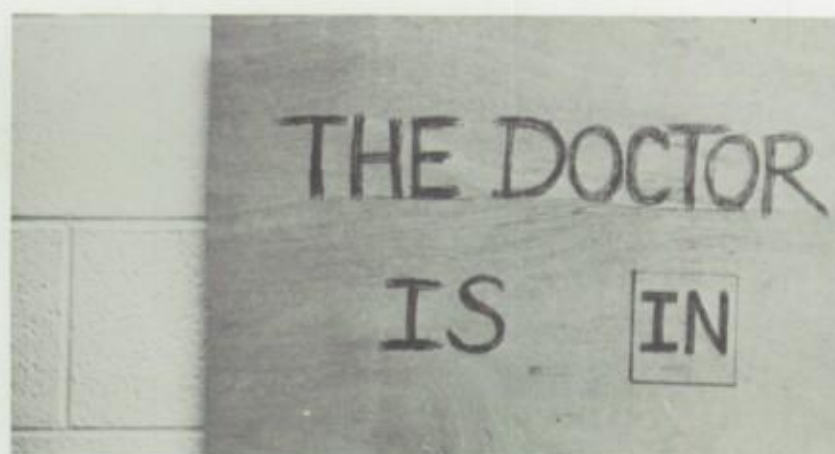

When you were feeling depressed or undecided about which class to take, the guidance counselors were always there to help. When you had a problem or a question, the office staff was there to answer and advise. When the problem began to affect classroom behavior, Coach Cooke was there. These professionals worked hard all year to make the students lives run easier. Their combined efforts contributed to another successful year.

'I can't seem to shake her!' claims Mrs. Smith

"We met while we were teaching at the same school in another city," explained Mrs. Smith. "We found out we had the same birthday and assumed we were supposed to be friends."

"Hey, we all make mistakes," Mrs. Pasko pointed out.

"When I decided I wanted to work more closely with the students, I came to Green Run," explained Mrs. Smith.

Mrs. Pasko added "Then I decided to look for a more challenging position — a 'New Path' so to speak. Well, I found it when I began teaching here and sponsoring the yearbook. I love it but there seems to be a million things to do. Mrs. Smith's the reasons I'm as sane as I am."

"Don't try to pin that one on me!" cracked Mrs. Smith.

"Actually," continued Mrs. Pasko, ignoring the snickering Mrs. Smith. "She helps me celebrate the good times and lets me cry on her shoulder during the rough times."

"Which explains my chronically wet shoulder," explained Mrs. Smith, reaching for a kleenex.

"All joking aside. Friends are what keep us going when we face something new in our lives."

English/ Library

Term papers ... research ... book reports ... The two places these reminded you of were the library and English class. Many lunches and study hall periods were spent in the library doing work for the papers and projects that seemed to take up all of our time before the Christmas holidays. At times it was as though the English teachers and librarians had banded together to keep us working hard. Of course, when everything was over with, we came out more well-informed and well-rounded individuals, thanks to the perseverance and dedication of our English teachers and librarians.

Culture days, government projects, city-wide foreign language events, and trips to court kept social studies and foreign language teachers busy and involved with their classes.

"Now class, quiet. Quiet, class! Class, Be Quiet! . . . SHUT UP!!!!!!!"

One could see a variety of food in Mr. Varga's classes on heritage food day, slide shows of Mr. Trueblood's trip to Europe or Mrs. Johnson leading her class in a polka. These projects and more combined to form more well rounded students.

Non-academics

Music filled the air. The band played on through shouts of commanders as the color guard practiced. The aroma of pizza tantalized the senses as it simmered in the oven. The grind of drills hummed as they produced works of art. The pounding of feet as students became physically fit. All these and more combined to form the non-academics classes. In these classes, students were encouraged to express themselves to their fullest extent. Consequently, many awards were won. Whether it was a trophy or a feeling of self accomplishment, teachers worked behind the scenes to help these students achieve.

Business Skills

Where were all those future Rockefellers and Vanderbilts produced? How did the soon-to-be F. Lee Bailey's get to know their trade? Answers to these questions were easily found in the business section of our school. Courses taught in law, accounting, business administration, and office or secretarial skills have kept business teachers busy in instructing students on various subjects such as money managing and transacting, business law deeds, ways to run efficient and offices and a multitude of other corporate functions. Because of a dedicated staff that was directed toward educating the new business giants in the world, the business department has been able to turn out one solid group of educated students who someday just may be at the head of a major corporation. Or possibly a famous defense attorney. Or maybe even a White House Secretary of Education?

Lets see . . . 99 diplomas . . . that should be enough.

QUESTIONS 13, 14

Mrs. Alice Walcavich taught three years of art at Green Run. She graduated from William and Mary and earned her Master's in Fine Arts at Virginia Commonwealth University. Mrs. Walcavich's favorite past time is art. Her wise words are, "When in doubt, leave it out."

QUESTIONS 15, 16

Mr. Bill BrisBois has taught for ten years and he has been at Green Run since it opened. After attending a two year college, he went on to get his Bachelor's Degree at Atlantic Christian College. Mr. BrisBois has conducted the Color Guard all three years. When he's not instructing the Color Guard, he spends his spare time gardening and enjoying the "fruits" of his labor. Mr. Brisbois words of wisdom are, "Always keep a sense of humor!"

Free Time ... At Last!

On January 29, after thirty long years, Mary Virginia Mathews put down her chalk, red ink pen, and Modern English In Action for the last time. To honor her retirement, the faculty gave her an afternoon tea and presented her with a Lenox pitcher as a token of their esteem. Not one to lie around moping, Mrs. Mathews has, since her retirement, been spotted in several states up and down the East Coast. Obviously, there is life after Green Run.

Pam Greene happily accepts the prestigious "Miss Green Run" award.

Old friendships never die!

"All for one and one for all"

New Paths, Old Friends

The last newspaper is distributed, the final cheer for a victorious team is screamed out, the last test is passed in, and the ending year-book page is read as we walk down the hall for one final time. With the commencement of another year many of us look toward the future, whether it is a summer job, college, a career, or maybe total relaxation followed by another year of school.

We say good-bye to those long-lasting friends who shared our excitement as well as our problems and on our way out the door one last time we cannot but help to look back at the memories which have left such a strong impression. We watch the door shut and in that glass window we see the reflections of Friday night football games, Christmas caroling with the gang, and even that last time around the floor at the class dance. Toward the great line of yellow buses or mass of cars in the parking lot we walk, possibly realizing that it wasn't the school or classes or even people that make the year stand out but rather the school that we made, classes we supported, friendships that we formed, and the excitement that we made happen.

The door shuts and we settle back for that long ride toward our destination, wondering whether we are ready to take off. Yet, with all that we have learned, in our triumphs and defeats, our excitements and let-downs, and our failures and dreams, we would not be the same if we had not experienced this much of life and learning. And if it had not been for those friends who soothed us in moments of depression and believed in us during our search for a dream, we would not be who we are now. It was our old friends who helped us to enjoy the good times and the strides toward those new paths. From what we have learned of ourselves and our friends we start off and set an open course for a new life and wonder, "Will the world be ready for us?"

"A friend in need is a friend indeed."

Woman's best friend is her horse.

After Mrs. Mathew's retirement party, Mrs. Jackson wishes her good luck in pursuing new paths.

The Road Not Taken

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth;

Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that, the passing there
Had worn them really about the same,

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I —
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

Bev,
Hey girl!! It's been one kick ass
year since we met you & Borne, you've been a really great friend, I can talk to ya about anything!
you & Brian will work things!
Crazy times we were made for each other! I'll always remember all those kicks and we'll go a lot when we went out. I'll see comes down, I'll have a can just about any time I want it! I'll pick up some guys and chase! So keep in touch this summer & we'll do some kick ass raising hell!

Good Friends
Always,
